

te: In assessing the qualifications of an applicant, (a), (b) and (c) are considered essential; (d), (e) and (f) most desirable, but not mandatory.

Post-enrolment.

- a. a willingness to profit by the experience of others; this means:
- read your instructions carefully and intelligently, and try to carry them out to the best of your ability at all times.
- b. pay special attention to your 'paper work'. It may seem laborious - and some of it unnecessary - but remember you are entrusted with the task of recording scientific data. Therefore, BE ACCURATE
BE TRUTHFUL
- c. as a registered bander you are privileged, through the co-operation of your State Fauna Authority, to trap protected birds. Privileges can be withdrawn; don't abuse them!
- d. there is a lot of public sentiment about our native birds - and that is a good thing, in fact it is one of the pre-requisites to effective conservation. It follows that public relations are intrinsically important to bird-banding; therefore, do not make a public exhibition of your traps and nets, but be prepared always to explain the objects of banding to any interested member of the public (publicity leaflets are available from the Secretary or your Regional Organiser on request).
