

THE 20 MINUTE SEARCH - A SIMPLE METHOD FOR COUNTING FOREST BIRDS

RICHARD H. LOYN

Department of Conservation, Forests and Lands, Mountain Forest Research Station.
Sherbrooke, Victoria 3789

Present Address: Arthur Rylah Institute, 123 Brown Street. Heidelberg, Victoria 3084

Received 2 November, 1984

A simple method is proposed for estimating relative abundances of forest birds. An unmarked area of about 3 ha is searched for 20 minutes and all birds seen or heard are counted. The method has been used widely in Victoria and its scope and limitations are discussed.