

Mixed Species Flocks in a Dry Sclerophyll Forest in Autumn and Winter

NEIL HERMES

Mixed species feeding flocks were studied in dry sclerophyll forest at Black Mountain Nature Reserve, Australian Capital Territory. Twenty-three species were observed in mixed flocks. Species are grouped according to foraging pattern and details of the composition of the flocks is given.