

Results from a Nesting Study of Welcome Swallows in Southern Tasmania

P. PARK

The nesting, pulli development and behaviour of a group of colour-banded Welcome Swallows Hirundo neoxena was studied at Campania in southern Tasmania over a period of five years during the time between their arrival each spring and their departure in the autumn.